Twenty-three National Committeemen Express Their Sympathy for the Homestead Workmon and the Buffalo Switchmen-Eastern Hendquarters Will be in Boston.

Twenty-three of the thirty-three National Committeemen of the People's party from the States which have been set apart by the National Committee of the party as an Eastern district met at the Astor House vesterday to arrange the preliminaries of the campaign in the eleven States which they represent. Departing from the custom of the old parties, the People's party has three National Committeemen in each State. Those present at yesterday's meeting were:

Maine, H. S. Hobbs, A. A. Benton, B. W. Boynton; Massachusetts, George F. Wash-burn, Gen. H. H. Boyce, Andrew H. Paton; New Hampshire, J. F. Woodbury, D. B. Cur-rier; Rhode Island, S. F. Claffin, H. M. Arnold, J. C. Vallette: Connecticut, Dr. A. S. Houghton, Robert Pyne, H. C. Baldwin; New York, H. A. Hicks, I. E. Dean, W. G. F. Price; New Jersey, J. R. Buchanan, John Wilcox; Pennsylvania, J. B. Aiken, V. A. Lotier; Maryland, M. A. Dunning, F. F. Hefron, Vermont and

Delaware were not represented. The committee was in executive session most of the afternoon, and adjourned after having decided to establish headquarters and to run full State and electoral tickets in the States they represent.

They also issued an address to the voters of the Eastern section. George F. Washburn of Massachusetts presided, and Dr. Houghton of Connecticut was the Secretary.
It had been the intention of the party to establish headquarters in New York, but in view of the stories which have been published regarding the establishment of Democratic canch headquarters in Chicago to look after branch headquarters in Chicago to look after the Third party in the West, and of ex-Congressman Featherston's alliance with Chairman Carter in an endeavor to secure the Third party sassistance for the liepublican ticket, it was considered best to give up this plan. It was declared that there must be no deals with the old parties, and that, as the Feople's party managers consider their vote likely to be a factor. In Connecticut, New York, and New Jyrsey, they would be accused of having located their headquarters in New York in order to be in a good place to dicker with the Democratic and Republican committees relative to those States.

tive to those States.

This argument was sufficiently strong to carry a resolution to establish the headquarters in Boston, which will be done as soon as Chairman Washburn shall appoint the Executive Committee, which he was empowered to

The statement of the party's position which The statement of the party's position which was issued recited the history of the recent riots at Homestead and Buffale. The former it calls a fight for the right of labor to organize, and the Pinkerton men are termed an army of hired miscreants. The latter was an attempt on the part of the switchmen to compel enforcement of a State law.

The effort to restore law and order it denounces in each case. The building trades strikes in this city were also commended and the police denounced as the active agents of the employers.

the police denounced as the active agents of the employers.

The address declares that the People's party is in full sympathy with organized labor and would assist it in maintaining "its inalicinable right to organize and fight for its right." It calls on all workingmen to make their appeal to the ballot box and vote for the People party candidates.

The County Committee of the People's party met at 6 Clinton place last night and discussed the action it should take regarding the election of delegates to the State Convention to be held in Syracuse on Sept. 17.

The most important business transacted was the determination to orect a transparency setting forth the beauty of the party's principles and bearing the names of its candidates.

CABINET OFFICERS RETURNING.

Elkins Brings a Rosy Report for the Republicans from West Virginia, WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 .- One by one the members of the Cabinet are returning to Washington from their summer vacations. Secretary Elkins is the intest arrival. He called here to day and reported for duty at the War Department. He says he has not paid much attention to politics during the past three weeks. His orests in the West Virginia Central Railroad and his beautiful country home at kins," in West Virginia, has monopolized the greater portion of his time while he was greater portion of his time while he was away from his official duties. He regards the political situation in West Virginia as exceedingly promising from a Republican standpoint, Secretary Eikins may deliver a few compaign speeches but he is more useful as a worker than a talker. It will be observed that Mr. Eikins does not commit himself positively to the prediction that West Virginia will go Republican. He knows, or at least be ought to know, that the Democrats have control of the State organization, and Senators Faulkner and Kenna and Representative. Wilson are in the saddle and at the head of the party forces. and kenna and Representative will on are in the saddle and at the head of the party forces. Under the circumstances it will be one of the grentest surprises of the campaign if the Democrats allow the Republicans to capture the State. Mr. Elkins evidently felt uncertain of the result when he declined the nomination for Governor.

Washington Democrats.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Aug. 25.-The platform reported by the Committee on Resolutions in the Democratic State Convention last night endorses the national platform and the nominees of the Chicago Convention: pledges re nees of the Chicago Convention: pledges reform in the existing tariff laws; opposes a Faderal Election law; favors free and unlimited coinage of American silver and liberal appropriations for coast improvements. It favors the election of President, Vica-President, and United States Senators by ta. 1946.

A minority report to the plank in the platform about the Lake Washington Canal was presented and adopted, as follows:

We endorse the action of the Democratic House of Representatives in refusing an appropriation for Lake Washington Canal, and we condemn the course of Senators Squire and Allen and Representative Wilson in their advices of this lesse to the detriment of appropriations for the necessary improvement to the rivers and harbors of the state.

Another of the state.

A motion was made to reconsider the vote adding the minority report to the platform, and the reli call on this motion was proceeded with amid great excitement. The vote was 177 for reconsideration and 154 against. The minority report was not added to the platform, and the Convention adjourned until to-day.

William H. Herndon, clerk of the State Rallroad Commission, is the latest accession to Chairman Sheehan's staff at Democratic State chairman Sheehan's staff at Democratic State headquarters. He is expected to take chargo of the speakers' bureau for the campaign. Secretary De Freest said yosterday that the demand on him for campaign literature is very great and that arrangements will be made in a day or two for filling them all. Among his callers yesterday were Nicholas Muller, Jr., Chairman of the Richmond County Democratic Committee; ex-Congressman John Wiley of Buffalo, and R. A. Parmenter of Troy.

HE MAY SPEAK IF HE SO WISHES. But President Marrison is Not Yet on the National Committee's List. A statement emanating from Washington, to publican National Committee are at loggerheads over the question of the President's taking the stump during the present campaign, caused general smiles yesterday among the knowing, as it is pretty well understood that the Republican National Campaign Committee was organized as Mr. Harrison desired. is running the campaign under his direction. and would hardly interfere with any desire he might entertain to go on the platform in his

The story is that the President wants to make several speeches, but that the committee desires him to keep in the background while they work out his political salvation through other agencies. Mr. Hahn, who has the management of the Spellbinders' Bureau, has not placed Mr. Harrison on his list of speakers yet, and does not expect to do so The strongest argument which the President is expected to advance for his retention in the White House, it is said, will be his letter of acceptance which he is preparing at Loon acceptance, which he is preparing at Loon Lake. If he makes any speeches, they are not expected to be of a political character, but of that innocuous though clever sort for which he has a knack.

"The Executive Committee is receiving calls from all parts of the country," said Mr. Hahn last evening. "for the Presidentto make speeches. I should like very much to have him on my list of stump orators, for he is one of the very best men in the country for that sort of work. I am afraid, however, that those who desire to hear Mr. Harrison on the stump will be disappointed."

Mr. Hahn said that he is all ready to supply the immediate needs of the party in the matter of stump speakers. There are 400 speakers booked by the bureau, but that is but a cornoral's guard when compared with the army it is Mr. Hahn's purpose to send over the country.

ers booked by the bureau, but that is but a corporal's guard when compared with the army it is Mr. Hahn's purpose to send over the country.

Chairman Carter has a happy way of corralling the United States Senators who were opposed the renomination of Harrison at Minneapfolis, and securing interviews for them in which hey tell of the beautiful harmony which prevails among the Republicans of their State, and how Harrison and Reid are going to secure their electoral votes. He had done this successively with Wilbur E. Sanders of Montana, R. F. Pettigrew of South Dakota, and Henry C. Hamsbrough of North Dakota, and Henry C. Hamsbrough of North Dakota, who are suspected to have come to the city with entirely different objects in view. These men were leading members of the anti-Harrison contingent at Minneapolis, and are said to have strong grievances against the management of the campaign by Chairman Carter, so far as it relates to the States which they represent. They have brought their grievances to New York, but the wily Thomas has disarmed them and put them on record with the other placated Baine beomers. Senator Hansbrough was the last of the two to be caught yesterday. He said, among other things: "The majority of the people of North Dakota are not free traders. They are protectionists and believe in Republican principles, and, for these reasons, North Dakota is absolutely certain to give its electoral vote to Harrison and Heid. As for the Alliance people, while they are stronger than they have been at any time heretofore, they cannot, by any possible means, poll enough votes to make the State doubtful. The same condition of things exists in South Dakota, and I may say Nebraska. Kansas, and all the way down. I regard Montana safe, and Minnesota as, not even doubtful."

W. L. McMillen of New Orleans, who called on Chairman Carter vasterday said that ac-

Kansas, and all the way down. I regard Montann safe, and Minnesota as, not even doubtful.

W. L. McMillen of New Orleans, who called on Chairman Carter yesterday, said that, according to his view of the situation in that State, the People's party will elect their electoral ticket, and that there was a good prospect of electing Republican Congressmen in the Second. Third, and Sixth districts.

Following the policy which he has adopted of magnifying the tariff and belittling the Force bill as issues. Chairman Carter caused to be issued yesterday a long tariff interview with George W. Betts of the varnish and paint firm of F. W. Devec & Co. of Fulton street, in which that gentleman describes himself as a convert to protection after witnessing the beneficial workings of the McKinley bill.

Among the callers at headquarters vesterday were Chairman Brookfield of the State Committee. Secretary Andrew B. Humphrey of the Republican League of Clubs. President McAlpin of the State League, Gen. Tremain, and Congressman Hooker. Whitelaw Reid did not visit headquarters nor his rooms in the Fifth Avenue Hotel yesterday, remaining instead at his country seat. Ophir Farm, recuperating after his Westerntrin.

Having remained in the city two days longer than he had intended, because of the demands made on him at Republican national headquarters, Gov. McKinley of Ohio left for Brattleboro, Vt., with his wife yesterday morning.

DEPUBLICANS ON THE ANXIOUS SEAT. Senators Allen and Paddock Have a Hard

Fight to Becure a Re-election. WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.-There are still a few Congressmen lingering around Washington seeking patronage or other layors from the heads of the various departments before going home to participate in the campaign. Senator Allen of the State of Washington was a visitor at the Treasury Department to-day in search of some material to help him in his il re-election. His term expires next March, and he is anxious to serve six years longer in the Senate. One of the recently created Federal Judgeships was offered him, but he declined it. He is going to have a hard struggle against a combination of Democrats, third party men, and free silverites. A private letter received a few days ago from Spokane says that the Democrats are in excellent fighting trim throughout the State of Washington, and the leaders are confident that they will carry the State for the Democratic electors. Senator Allen is not making extravagant claims now, but he is quite anxious as to the cutcome. Senator Paddock of Nebraska is another Western Republican who is at present occupying a seat on the anxious bench. His term in the Senate expires next

March, and he is seeking a re-election. There appears to be much doubt about it, for the Third Party and the Farmers' Alliance are disposed to fuse with the Democrats to prevent his return. He will meet determined resistance from his old antagonist. Charles H. Van Wyck, who beat him in the race for the Senate twelve years ago. Van Wyck was formerly an independent anti-monopolist Republican, and when he was a member of the Senate he voted with the Demcerats as often as he voted with the Republicans. His peculiarities and eccentricities are well remembered here by those who were on duty at the Capitol at the time, and he would be a lively addition to the now duty at the Capitol at the time, and he would be a lively addition to the now dreary Senate. Senator Paddock seems to realize that he has a hard fight at home, so he intends to prepare himself for the contest before taking leave of Washington. He is now engaged in compiling a complete record of his work in Congress during the past six years, showing every bill, resolution, petition, or memorial that has been introduced by him, also what action has been taken on them, and an explanation of every important vote he has cast. He also intends to show his constituents how much patronage he has obtained from the present administration, and, in short, give a detailed account of his stewardship for the past six years. Fortunately for him the people of Nebraska do not condemn him for his vote against the iniquitous Force bill during the last Congress. He was one of the six Republicans who voted with the Democrats to bury the monstrous measure concocted by Senator Hoar, Representative Lodge, and John I. Davenport.

There is another Western Republican who hestiates to go home until he can gather some additional reason why he should be returned to Congress. Representative Funston of Ransas is one of the few Republicans who withstood the attack of the Farmers' Alliance movement in that State two years ago, but he has not cut much of a figure in the present Congress, so it is said he is marked for slaughter. Mr. Funston has been busying himself around the White House and the departments for several days past, and it is said lo is interested in the selection of a Commissioner of the General Land Office to succeed Chairman Carter of the Hepublican Antional Committee. At the Interior Department there is a prevailing impression that the President will reappoint Chairman Carter to the Land Office after the election is over. If such a move has been determined upon it behoves Mr. Funston to turn his efforts and influence in another direction. He prefers a return to congress, but it is understood that he has a hard road to travel.

THE FORCE BILL SETTLES IT. DEMOCRATS REGAINING BECENT

LOSSES IN THE VIRGINIAS. A Thorough Canvass in North Caroline The Third Party There a Menace to the Republicans-Hugh J. Grant as the Can-didate for Mayor Again This Fall.

Most of the visitors at Democratic National Headquarters yesterday were enthusiastic in their testimony that the Force bill is the winning issue for the Democracy in the present campaign. Among them were Senator Charles J. Faulkner of West Virginia, National Com-mitteeman James L. Norris of the District of Columbia, and ex-Mayor S. H. Fishblate of Wilmington, N. C. They all told of the in-spiriting effect on the Domocracy of the South produced by the raising of this issue, and how it had checked the Third party movement, which at one time threatened the Democracy in some of the Southern States.

North Carolina is Democratic beyond a doubt," said the ex-Mayor of Wilmington, "and if the Republican party shall nominate a State ticket, the Third party people and the Alliance people will hasten to return to the Democratic fold. If the Republicans do not nominate a State ticket there will be more negro votes for the Democratic candidate than for the Third party ticket. We have got them on the run in North Carolina, and the Third party people are beginning to see it and are leaving it and coming back to our ranks. We will give our usual Democratic majority of 10,-000 or 20,000. It will be one of the greatest canvasses ever carried on in North Carolina. All the prominent speakers of the State are turning out, and in another month the State will be ablaze from the mountains to the sea shore. Senator Ransom is giving the State a thorough canvass, and is on the road day and night. Ex-Gov. Jarvis and candidate for Governor, Elias Carr, are not missing a day except Sundays. They are making the best canvass that has ever been made in North Carolina. Large crowds meet them everywhere. All the local politicians are on the stump. Regardless of what the Republicans may brag, you can put North Carolina down as safe in the Democratic Sanator Faulkner, who has been actively engaged in the canvass of West Virginia and has spoken in fifteen counties, says that the indications are most encouraging. All the losses which the Democracy sustained there in 1888. he said, have been recouped, and the men who deserted to Harrison then are all back to their old Democratic love. "I have addressed several meetings in the Northern Panhandle since I was here last week," he said. "A mong men of all occupations and classes the Force bill issue has a powerful effect, and it will swell our vote greatly. The only element of uncertainty in the campaign is the Third party movement, but I am clear in my judgment that it will not affect the result unfavorably to us. It will draw from the Bepublicans more decidedly than from the Democrats. There are many Republicans in the State who are alarmed at the Force bill policy, and are discontented at other features of Republican plans. They hesitate to join the Democratic party, and a number of them will stop at the Alliance or Third party as a sort of half-way house. The more I see of the different localities in our State, and the more closely I watch the current of political thought, the more certain I am that the efforts of our opponents to transfer our electoral vote to the Republican column will meet with signal and disastrous failure." National Committeeman Norris, who has unusual facilities at the nation's capital for observing political events through his business, which reaghes into nearly every county in the United States, and his connection with the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, said: "I have just returned from a trip in Virginia and West Virginia. I found the political contest as hot at this early stage as it usually is at the close of the campaign.

This is especially true of West Virginia, where meetings are being held everywhere. In both States the Force bill issue has a powerful effect in keeping old Democrats in line and bringing many new recruits to the party, besides depletting the Republicans through the Third party. The prospect of return to central domination and the restriction of local centrol of elections is appalling to the people of those States.

Ex-United States District Attorney Mark D.
Wilbur of Brooklyn, who has been stumping in Bullivan. Ulster, and Delaware counties, had an encouraging story to tell the national eampaign managers of constant accessions to the Democratic ranks from the farming community and workingmen who have heretofore voted with the Republicans on national issues.

That the National Committee has not forgotten that New York State is the key to the situation is shown by the story which leaked out yesterday that Mr. Whitney, Chairman Harrity, and Lieut.-Gov, Sheehan had added their voice and arguments to those of Richard Croker and other Tammany Hall leaders to prevail upon Mayor Grant to accept a renomination, and that the Mayor had reconsidered his determination and had consonted. Recognizing the conservative and economical character of the Mayor's administration it was considered that he would be the strongest

According to this story the determination to run Mayor Grant for a third term was reached at a recent meeting of the National State and city Democratic leaders at Long Branch.

The absence of Sergeant-at-Arms James Oliver from headquarters yesterday led to the circulation of a story that he had resigned. Such is not the fact. Mr. Oliver is confined to his home on account of an injury to his ankle sustained while rescuing a woman from being run over by a Broadway car, near Fourteenth street, more than a week ago.

TRYING TO DIVIDE THE DEMOCRACY. The Erle County Provisional Committee

Issue an Insulting Circular. BUFFALO, Aug. 25.-A circular has been sent out by the Provisional County Committee which indicates the course to be pursued by that organization during the campaign. The document reads as follows:

RHIE COUNTY DEMOCRATIC HEADQUARTERS, COMMITTEE & ROOMS 484 Main STREET, BUFFALO, Aug. 17, 1892. Room 484 Mars Street, Berrale, Aug. 1, 1882.

Dran Sin: You are especially requested to attend a meeting of our County Committee Bext Friday evening, Aug. 18, 1892, at 8 o'clock, at which time the committee will be requested to pass upon questions of great imperiance.

The calling of this meeting at an earlier date than was contemplated a dame for the reason that the situ-

was contemplated is done for the reason that the situ ation in our party throughout the county and State has become very serious.

There seems to be but one course left for Mr. Cieveland's friends to pursue, and that is to organize thoroughly in every town, ward, and election district independently of the so-called regulars, and see to it that our national ticket receives the support to which it is entitled, a support it certainly will not receive if the campaign is left entirely in the hands of Mr. Cleveland's enemies.

Make it your business to attend the meeting on Friday night, Yours, &c., John C. Collins, Beerstary County Committee. August F. Schou. lately elected State Committeeman, spoke to The Sun correspondent to-night as follows: "I saw the circular in Albany and had heard in an obscure way about it before. I never was so surprised in all my political experience at the issuing of such a circular by people who are supposed to be friendly to Mr. Cleveland's election. "It is an insult to Lieut.-Gov. Sheehan and an insult to myself. I cannot imagine how any one who desires the election of the Presi-an insult to myself. I cannot imagine how any one who desires the election of the President can exhibit such a lack of common sense and goed judgment.

"It was practically understood, in? fact it was arranged by Mr. Whitney and members of the State Committee, that the Provisional Committee would cease to exist after the nomination of Mr. Cleveland. I can't understand why faith has been broken by the so-called Cleveland followers."

Mr. Scheu was asked if the County Committee was not authorized by the Syracuse Convention to continue, no matter who was chosen at Chicago.

"No. decidedly not." responded Mr. Scheu.

"The May Convention movement is looked upon by all good Democrats as a thing of the past. As far as I am concerned, personally and officially, I know of but one Democratic County Committee, which has its headquarters at 323 Main street, and which has for its Chairman George J. Zillig, and for its sceretary Frank T. Reynolds. In regard to your question as to how our Buffale Democrats regard such interference as this circular contemplates, I am glad to say that no difference of opinion prevails among all the leading Democrats I have thus far consulted.

"Since my return from New York I have talked political matters with Mayor Bishop and other prominent Democratic politicians who actively strove for Cleveland's nomination, and all of them, without exception, expect that the regular committees will carryon the campaign in the regular way, and with as great activity as Democrats only can exercise.

Mr. Sheelan I know to an absolute certainty is heart and soul for the national ticket."

DERVISHES HAVE A TALE OF WOR.

Missionary Esset Says They were Tricked Into Coming to This Country.

Ferhad Ezzet, who was for seven years dervish in Constantinople, and who came to America as a missionary six years ago, read of the disgusting performance a few weeks ago, under the management of E. M. Malluk, in Madison Square Garden. It was given out that the performers were dervishes. Mr. Ezzet thought that such an exhibition was very strange for a dervish to take part in and went to the performers' quarters at 113 East Twenty-sixth street to speak with them. He says that only five of them are dervishes, and that when he addressed them in the Turkish language these five wept for joy, as he was the first American who had spoken to them in their own tongue. Mr. Ezzet says the five told him that they were brought here under false pretences.

According to Mr. Ezzet's story, which he says was obtained from them. Malink in May. 1802, conceived the idea of coming to this country with a troup of Arabs and jugglers under the name of "howling and whirling dervishes."

He hired agents who were to visit different countries and employ men to take part in the performance. Twelve Arabs were picked up in different places and left the country without passports. Thirteen magicians were hired in

About this time, Mr. Ezzet savs, the five dervishes who came from Constantinople to perform a religious ceremony at the mosque in Alexandria, were seen by Ali Hasen, agent for Malluk. He told them to come to America, where there was a grand mosque and thousands of people ready to be converted to the Mohammedan religion.

The dervishes in the old country receive a certain emolument from the ceremonics performed by them. Agent liasen said they could make $15 a month in America, which was more than they were making there, but that the money would be paid them only when they participated in the ceremony.

The live agreed to come. Their names are Ahmad Seffit, Abdallah, Osmen, Marned Caslin, and Mamed Ali. These are the only genuine dervishes in the troupe. Mr. Ezzet says, The rest are Oriental fakirs or jugglers, and Arabs.

When Mr. Erzet saw them Mamed Ali begged him to inform Tello J. d'Apery of their condition, because Tello liad helpful a Turk out of trouble, and sent him back to Turkey only a week before.
He and Mr. Ezzet, who is now an American elizen, are making an effort to send the dervishes back to Constantinople.

A GANG OF YOUNG THIFTEN CAUGHT. They Stole a Enby Carriage and Rifled Till on the Bowery.

Mrs. Solomon of 449 Grand street took her baby out in the baby carriage last Friday. Her husband has a tailor shop on the ground floor of the house. When Mrs. Solomon got back she took the baby out of the carriage and brought it into her husband's shop.

She left the carriage on the sidewalk. After a stay of about ten minutes Mrs. Solomon went to the sidewalk after the carriage. It was gone. Mr. Solomon made some inquiries among the neighbors, but learned nothing. He didn't report the matter to the police. Yesterday he was talking of the loss of his baby carriage to a young woman who lives in the same house and she told him of a how named Sammy Meyers, who said he saw some boys take the carriage.

Solomon went to the Delancy street station and detectives Shelvey and Hussey were put on the case. Hussey, on Meyer's information. arrested Frank Mead, 8 years old, of 182 Madi-arrested Frank Mead. 8 years old, of 182 Madison street, and Joseph Schroder, 12 years old, of 315 Madison street.

The boys admitted other thefts, but wouldn't say much, except that the baby carriage was not all they had stolen. The Mead boy, after a lot of questioning, said that he and Shroder received money from Charley and Harry Cohen. The amount stolen was $12.50, he said, but it was the Cohen boys that stole it. Where it was stolen they wouldn't say, but they told the detective that they had bought clothes with it. While the boys were talking one of them said: "Thore goes one of our gang now." Detective, Hussey went out and arrested Samuel Watts, it years old, of 135 Pitt street. Mrs. Jennie Solomon of 214 Madison street tried to prevent Hussey arresting the boy, and she was locked up. At 10 o'clock the Cohen boys were found. They live at 200 Division street.

hoys were found. They live at 200 Division street.

Charley Cohen is 7 years old and Harry is 5 years. They were not arrested, but will be taken to court to-morrow morning. Charley said he was not with the gang the day that the carriage was stolen, but acknowledged that he and his brother were there when the money was taken. He said that last Tuesday Schroder, Mead, his brother, and himself were on the Bowery. One of them entered a store and stole the money out of a drawer. The police think that there are more in the gang and that to-day in court the boys will make a clean breast of everything.

FLED TO AVOID ARREST.

Warrant Had Been Issued for Pratt on Complaint of Mary Houston. ELIZABETH, Aug. 25.-One Francis Pratt, who as employed at S. L. Moore's Sons shipyard here as a Government draughtsman on the cruiser Bancroft, has fled from the city to avoid arrest for seduction. Pratt was sent from the Brooklyn Navy Yard to Elizabethport to look after the practice cruiser's construc-tion. He became acquainted with Miss Mary Houston of 700 Jefferson avenue and ruined her under a promise of marriage. Her father lodged a complaint with the Chief of Police ledged a complaint with the Chief of Police and made a second complaint on Tuesday before Justice Noill at Elizabethport, who sent Constables Halpin and Donovan to arrest Pratt. The constables were in such a hurry to get ahead of Chief Tenny's detectives that they went to Pratt's bearding house, on South Broad street, and nabbed the wrong man.

This gave the cue to the other inmates of the place, and one of them went to the station last night and met Pratt as he was getting off the train and told him the police were after him. The draughtsman bearded the train again and went on to Philadelphia, where he now is. Chief Tenney was Jurious over the blunder.

Rose Austin, the the trapeze performer who has been missing since Monday from her home at Bath Beach, returned last night, and is confined to her bed, attended by a physician. She is wandering in her mind, and has cian. She is wandering in her mind, and has been unable to give any account of her movements, except to say that she was taken ill on the Twenty-third street forry.

George Austin, Rose's husband, was standing in front of their cottage, about 0:40°clock, when Rose approached him. She did not appear to know where she was, and when her husband spoke to her, did not make a connected reply. She was taken up stairs to her room and put to bed. Mr. Austin thinks that after his wife was taken siek on the ferry boat she went to the residence of Ada Dare, an actress, who lives with her family at Twenty-third street and Second avenue. Mrs. Austin's appearance denotes that she has been well cared for, and nothing is missing except her cloak.

At the close of the banquet Mayer Andrews intro-duced to the audience John Platt, son of Mayor Platt of Gloucester, Eng. The young man said he had been directed by his father to represent old Gloucester on this occasion, and he pre-sented Mayor Andrews, in behalf of old Gloucester, with a large and landsomely bound album, containing many historic views of his native city, portraits of the City Council, and a history of the corporation. The day's testivities closed with a ball.

Post Office Clerk Frazer's Case. New BRUNSWICE, Aug. 25.-William H. Frazer, an employee of the New York Post Office, was to-day committed to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury upon a charge of the action of the Grand Jury upon a charge of assault preferred by Emma Schrimmer. 14 years old.

Frazer has a country house nearthere, and took the Scrimmer girl from a charitable institution as a maid for his wife. The evidence to-day was strong against Frazer.

It was brought out that he sent the girl to a physician in New York after the alleged assault, and that when she recovered she at once told her father, who is a veleran and an inmate of a soldier's home, of Frazer's conduct. Frazer's arrest followed.

A BATTLE WITH A PYTHON.

and Partly Swallows His Hand Reforthe Assistants Come to the Resone, CINCINNATI, Aug. 25,-Superintendent Stehands while attending to his duties. He has been the victim of several mishaps, but his latest adventure came near being his last. Nothing but pure luck saved him from a horrible death.

It has been sought to keep this last experience of Mr. Stephens quiet, but his illness caused inquiry, and the Times-Star to-night publishes a column of the story.

A consignment of venomous snakes had been received from Texas, and for lack of other quarters it became necessary to place them in the cage in which are kept the boas and pythons.

Before this could be done several more small trees had to be placed in the cage for the serpents to coll on. The boas and a 14-foot python had not been fed for some time and were very active. On Tuesday Mr. Stephens procured a box in which to place the creatures until he could prepare the cage for them. He then entered the cage, the box being left at the open door of the cage.

He seized the snakes and had succeeded in getting all in the box but the python. Before moving the python Stephons stopped a moment to watch the snakes in the box, but was startled at a flerce hissing behind him. Glancing around, he saw the python coming toward him, its eyes flashing, and its tongue darting.

Stephens saw his danger instantly. There was no escape, and it was to be a fight. Swifter than the serpent's motion Stephens grasped the monster just back of the neck with his right hand, the left clutching the reptile about two feet further back, where the bulk of the python's muscular power is located.

He started to thrust the writhing mass into the box. At the same instant the python throw the twelve loose feet of its body about the superintendent's legs and began to squeeze with all its might, gradually but steadily moving the ever tightening coils higher and higher.

There were a number of spectators in the building, a long, low structure in which the carnivora are kept, but all were too greatly overcome by fear to render aid. Indeed they could only get to the struggling man by removing the box of snakes at the entrance to

By this time the hyenas, tigers, and leopards were in a state of frenzy. They bounded up and down in their cages with flendish yells. They tore at the iron bars and beat the walls with awful fury. The lions, all but one, roared with awful fury. The itons, all but one, roared until the building shook, and frightened visitors fled panic stricken.

The one it in that remained silent was Laura, a beast that has always shown an almost human-like devotion to Mr. Stephens. She left her cubs in the rear, and, standing on her intid feet, her paws against the railing, gazed fixedly at her friend, utterly heedless of the yelling devils about her.

The uprout brought the attendants of the garden to the scene. They were horror stricken at the sight. By this time the python had worked its folds up to Mr. Stephen's groin. The constriction was terrible.

Circulation had been stopped in the lower limbs, and they were numb and trembling. The perspiration ran in streams from the struggling man's face. His hands were so moist that the scaly thing twisted in them as easily as if loose.

struggling man's face. His hands were so moist that the scaly thing twisted in them as easily as if loose.

Suddenly the screent seemed to feel its victory near. It twisted its horrid head and thrust its ilery tengue into Mr. Stephens's face. At the same moment one of Stephens's hands became loosened, and the snake, with the speed of lightning, seized and began swallowing it.

The victim was so nearly overcome that for a moment he stood tottering and the hand had been swallowed without an effort to remove it. The entire hand up to the wrist had disappeared when Stephens sought to withdraw it. The reptile's mouth closed with a snap, sinking a fang into the bone at the base of the thumb and snapping the fang off.

The pain roused Mr. Stephens, and with an almost superhuman strength he caught the snale's throat with his free hand and began to squeeze with the energy of despair. Soon the python gasped for breath and as it opened its mouth he jerked out his hand.

By this time the attendants had secured the snakes in the box and entered the cage, where they beat the python until it relaxed its colls, and Mr. Stephens was taken out and cared for. The bite of the python is not dangerous, and Mr. Stephens was in no danger, but the palin from the bite was execuciating until the following day, when the fang was found and removed. In speaking of the matter Mr. Stephens, who will be out in a day or two, said:

"If I had not held on to its heaviest muscle I have no doubt he might have strangled me. As long as I kent my grip there I felt confident. The fangs are inclined backward, and it was impossible to free my hand without

The Judge, in my opinion, was prejudiced. We were not allowed to show the conspiracy that Davis and Walker successfully instigated to wreek the institution.

Holyoke, Mass. Aug. 25.—The local funds of the Iron Hall, amounting to $3,200, have been attached by two members who claim payment for sick benefits.

Philadelphia, Aug. 25.—This morning a bill in equity was filed before Judge liregy in Common Pleus Court against the officers of the Supreme Sitting of the Iron Hall, asking that a receiver be appointed and that the supreme officers be restrained from any later-ference with the funds of the order in this city.

Albany, Aug. 25.—Supreme Court Judge D. Cady Herrick has appointed George II. Burhams of this city receiver of the property and funds of the six branches of the Order of the Iron Hall located in Albany and vicinity.

The funds amount to about $10,000, and the membership is about $60. This will give to each on a pro rata division just $20. Some of these members have been in the order, paying assessments year after year, for over live years.

WAS SHE BUN DOWN AT SEAS The Wacht Lagonda Supposed to Have Bees

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 25 .- The racht Lagonda of Baltimore, commanded by Dorsey Cole and Charles Windar of that city is missing and no trace of her can be obtained. It is feared that she was lost in Sunday night's storm or else was run down by a constwise steamship. The Lagenda cleared from Buittmore in company of the yacht Consuelo, also of Baltimore, commanded by P. W. Kingsbury on Aug. 18.

The yachts had s pleasant voyage from the capes to the Delaware Brenkwater. Stress of weather obliged them to round Cape May Point for shalter and after lying to for a few hours, the yachts attempted to put out on Saturday. They were hardly into the ocean before the Saturday storm obliged them to put about and return to shelter, On Sunday morning, about 10 o'clock, they got under way and started up the coast. About 3:20 a heavy squall struck the boats and both were badly used. The Consuclo's port boat was washed from the davits, and, becoming waterlogged, was recovered with the greatest difficulty. Her mainsheet parted and the jaws of the gaff were carried away.

The wind blew a hurricane, and the yachts were knocked about for about four hours before they sighted Absecom light. In tacking were knocked about for about four nours before they sighted Absecom light. In tacking the Lagonda ran under the bow of the Consuelo, and as she went by her disabled mate Cole shouted to kingsbury:

"Make for Atlantic City. Will wait there." The wind continued to blow a hurricane, and having thus decided upon a course, the Lagonda was soon out of sight of the Consuelo. This was the last seen of the Lagonda. The Consuelo hove to until about midnight, when the wind shifted north. She then started toward the light, and about 2 o'clock in the morning anchored two miles off. About 5:30 o'clock anchor was weighed, and the Consuelo proceeded up the inlet, expecting to find the Lagonda at anchor.

They were disappointed, and Capt, Kingsbury has been unable as yet to trace his companion. Yachtsmen report nothing seen of the missing boat. The men at the life-saving station report that about 10 o'clock on Sunday night a light was seen at sea.

The weather was thick, and it was almost impossible to tell its character, but the men thought it was a distress signal and responded, but received no answer. Nothing more was thought of the matter until the fact of the missing Lagonda was reported. The Lagonda is supposed to have been thoroughly seaworthy.

The theory which is mostly accepted by yachtsmen and sailors here is that she was run down by a coastwise steamer.

"SEND THREE CHEAP COFFINS." Mr. Davis Kills Three Members of a Gang of Cattle Thieves,

GREEN RIVER, Utah, Aug. 25.-A fight took place yesterday near the Colorado State line which resulted in the killing of three outlaws. members of the notorious Brock gang, by a ranchman named Capt. W. E. Davis, who had been robbed of some cattle.

Brock has for some time been the head of an organized gang of cattle thieves. Last fall he was before the district court for horse stealing, but escaped upon technicalities. For six months a watch has unsuccessfully been kept to eatch the gang.

Yesterday morning about 6 o'clock Capt. W. E. Davis ran upon the gang while alone. He immediately began to empty his repeating rifle at the men. When he had finished four of the gang were down, three dead, and Brock himself, though living, was shot through the head. The shooting took place in Utah.

A physician was shortly afterward summoned to the scene. Brock's recovery is doubtful. Immediately after the affair Davis went to a telegraph office and sent the following laconic despatch to an undertaker at Grand Junetion: "Met the Brock gang this morning. Sen down three cheap coffins on first train. Davis has surrendered, but will be acquitted

A WOMAN AERONAUT KILLED. She Loses Her Hold on a Trapeze and Palls 150 Feet. DETROIT Aug 25.-The Detroit Exposition has scored its second fatal balloon accident Just a year ago John Hogan made an ascent from the Exposition grounds. When 2,000 or 2.500 feet from the ground he lost his hold and fell to the ground, losing his life.

This afternoon Gertrude Claussen, known professionally as Gertie Carmo, made an ascension with a hot-air balloon. The balloon darted up into the air as soon as it was released. All eyes were turned upward watching it and Miss Carmo, who was hanging by her hands to a trapeze.

The wind drove the balloon beyond the Exmissed a tower. Miss Carmo was not so fortunate, and she struck the tower heavily. The blow seemed to daze her, but she clung to the

The balloon continued to shoot upward, and it looked as if there was more danger.

There was a shriek of horror from the crowd below when it was noticed that a rope dangling from the trapeze had caught in some iron work around the top of the main tower.

The minute the rope caught the balloon gave a sudden jerk, and the shock loosened Miss Carmo's held, which was probably weak from the stunning blow sho had received. The girl fell first feet down and then head foremost, and struck the ground within thirty feet of the main Exposition building, and within fifteen feet from where the crowd was collected. within litteen feet from where the crowd was collected.

The woman was dead. Her bones were broken in eight or nine places.

Miss Carmo fell about 150 feet. She had only been a balloonist for two years, having taken instructions from John Hogan, who was killed last year. She was 21 years old, and lived in Detroit.

ONE KILLED, THREE INJURED.

A Gang of Trackmen Struck by a Fast Train on the Pennsylvania Road. One mile east of the Passaic River in East Newark the Pennsylvania Railroad branches in two directions, one line going to Centre Just at this point the Delaware, Lackawanna sylvania line and branches off to the northward. There are at least twenty tracks at this ward. There are at least twenty tracks at this junction, and it puzzles old railroad hands to know which one of these tracks a train is going to run upon next.

Yesterday morning a gang of trackmen employed upon the Pennsylvania road were dashed into by a fast west-bound train, and four of the laborers were struck by the engine. All were badly hurt, and one died before the next train was stopped to take them to a hospital in Jersey City. The injured men were foreigners, and their names were said to be Julius Brunwald. Carl Upkic, and Otto Frey, all residents of Jersey City. The name of the dead man could not be learned, as the other employees were not allowed to take about the matter, and the track foreman denied that any accident had taken place.

DEPRIVED GODDARD OF VICTORY. Billy Smith Almost Knocked Out when Police Interfered. SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25,-The fight at the California Athletic Club to-night was note-worthy, because Joe Goddard of Australia, who ook the contract to kneck out Billy Smith of Australia in ten rounds, has annuonced his intention of challenging the winner of the Sullivan-Corbett fight.

Although Goddard is the most awkard man ever seen in American ring, bar only Fitzsimmon, he has never been beaten and his admirers say there is no man to-day who can knock him out, not even the great John L. Goddard has great recuperative powers for in his fight with Choynski in Australia he was dazed by a blow that laid open his cheek to the bone, yet one minute's rest made mm a new man, and he whipped Choynski in the next round. Goddard showed up to-night in great form. He was as lean and as hard as on that last night in June when he punched the heart out of Joe McAuliffe. He had evidently trained carefully, for though he weighed 100 pounds there was not a superfluous ounce of flesh on

im. He wore the same confident look on his bull-He wore the same confident look on his bull-dog face, which always pleases his backers. Smith is the very opposite of Goddard in face and form. He does not weigh over 175 pounds, but is one of the most perfectly proportioned men who ever stepped into a ring, and his big shoulders and tremendous forearms show that he has heavy hitting power. Time was called at 8:25 o'clock.

First Round - Goddard planted a vicious left-hander on Smith's neck, fetching him to floor. Then he ran Smith around the ring, landing fearful blows on neck and chest. About half through the round Smith again went to the carpet.

He seemed to recuperate, and landed one good stiff blow on Goddard's chest, but he soen lost his steam and went down twice in succession under tremendous blows of right and left.

SECOND ROUND.—Goddard started in township.

soon lost his steam and went down twice in succession under tremendous blows of right and left.

SECOND HOUND,—Goddard started in to rush, but Smith showed much ingenuity in escaping punishment. Smith fell twice and rested seven seconds. Goddard again got in his terrible left on Smith's law.

The length of Smith's left bothered Goddard, and though he brought Smith down again with a swinging left-hander on the neek, he couldn't rattle him.

Third Rounn—Goddard rushed in as before, and with a fearful left-hander and upper cut, brought his man down. Smith railied and delivered a good right-hander on Goddard's chin, but again he went down for eight seconds.

Then he tried running, but Goddard floored him again with a fearful blow on the nose. Blood flowed as in a slaughter house, yet Smith was dead game, and after each rest fought well.

Fournt flound,—Smith tried pedestrianism, but was soon rounded up. He landed several times on Goddard's wind, but he could not protect his neck and got bad punishment, going down twice in succession.

Smith's mouth was swelled out of shape and one eye closed. He landed two rights on Goddard's keart, but they didn't phase him. The round turned into a succession of knock-downs, Smith rising only to be sent to the floor bleeding and panning like a wounded animal.

Firth Rouns—Goddard started out by delivering a straight left on Smith's mouth downs, Smith rising only to be sent to the floor bleeding and panting like a wounded animal.

Firm Roune-Goddard started out by delivering a straight left on Smith's mouth, which sounded the a blow with a baseball bat Smith twice all under light blows. Goddard's seconds caimed foul, and Capt. Short of the police the a steeped in, but was induced not ten the light.

Sixth Roune-Goddard was evidently savage, for he rashed Smith, dealing right and left handers on Smith's wounded mouth and eye, finally knocking him almost through the ropes. Again Goddard crowded him to the ropes, and landed a siskening blow on Smith's mouth. The latter bled like a stuck pig.

Sixth Roune-Smith warded off Goddard's flerce attack, but went down by a left on the mouth, which bled fearfully. Twice tooldard hit him down, the last time on his sore eye. Twice again Smith want down, but railied and landed twice on Goddard's neck, but his blows had no force.

Learnt Rought Smith down, and two others also floored him. Smith was exhausted, but deal game. He could only feebly hold his hands. Three times Goddard Boored Smith, when the pelice steeped in again and ordered the men to quit.

Rofere Jordan declared the fight a draw.
